Block Paving on Main Street. Block Paving on Main Street.

The standing committee on streets in this city has advertised for bids for the block stone paving on Main street. The bids call for the furnishing and laying of about 780 yards of concrete base, with about 2.337 yards of granite block wearing surfaces. The paving will be between the junction of Main and Union streets and North street. This is the first block stone paving to be done in the city and is the first step in a new policy adopted this year. Every year several thousaind dollars will be appropriated to pave Main street.

Sell Furniture to Norwich Second Hand Dealer.

Everett Harrington, 18, of Killingly Center, pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking into the Alexander house at Atjawangan crossing in the town court Friday afternoon, and is now held at the jail in Brooklyn in default of a bond of $500 to await trial at the September term of the superior court.

Harrington was caught in the house at about 3.30 Friday morning by Officers Michael Grimshaw and Eugene Gibney. He had been sleeping in one of the rooms on the upper floor and was unable to make his escape. The prisoner has been staying at the house since last Wednesday morning, when he first effected an entrance by forcing open one of the doors at the side of the house. His intent was to sell all the household furniture, and in fact all the other contents of the house to a dealer in second hand articles in Norwich. He had been making preparations for the wholesale cleaning out of the premises and went there with that intent.

The house is a brick building and is the Alexander homestead. It had been vacant for several months. According to the story that Harrington told in court his purpose was to get all the salable furnishings packed up and ready for delivery to the Norwich dealer, who was to come there with a feam, and after delivery of the spoils he was to receive $15. Harrington carried out his part of the agreement and the officers say that the place looked as if the people who had been living there had prepared to move out. The cook stove had been taken down and a good part of the furniture prepared for removal. The boy had had two days to make his preparations for the big haul and had made active use of them.

Harrington was inside the house. Harrington was not frightened away, however, by the fact that things looked suspicious to Mr. Phillips and continued to stay at the place. This proved to be the means of his capture, for after waiting in the woods nearly all of Friday night the officers decided to search the house, and their quarry was there sleeping. Harrington did not awake until he heard the officers coming up the stairs and the best he could do was to hide behind a chimney.

Harrington is also charged and mapleaded guilty to breaking and entering the summer cottage of Edward Jacobs on the fouth shore of the lake. He says he went into the cottage on the afternoon of May 29, but did not take unything and only entered to see what was inside. He denied having entered the summer cottage of Judge Arthur G. Bill.

The prisoner thrusts the responsibility of his acts to persons who, he alleges, tempted him to do wrong, and to the fact that he was not treated as a son by his father, who drove him from home. The boy says he had always lived an honest life until May 29, when he made his first break. The officers say that his reputation in the north part of the town has not been very good for some time and that they have suspected for a long time that he was guilty of breaking into the lake cottages.

Others Have Broken, Into Lake Cot.

Others Have Broken Into Lake Cottages.

The arrest of Everett Harrington Friday does not entirely clear the matter of the breaks at the summer cottages at the lake. While Harrington may know more about those breaks than he has told the officers, it is evident that he is not the only person who has forced an entrance to one or more of the cottages, either for the purpose of getting at their contents or to find a comfortable place to sleep. The cottages have been broken into regularly every summer or during the spring months for several years.

The four women testified that they did not see any notice prohibiting herry picking in this lot, and were busily filling their baskets when Mr. Cole came upon them, and without warning gave three of the four women a cut with a long whilp, knocking the glasses off one woman and breaking the nosepiece of the glasses. He gave another woman a blow which knocked her down. He then hit her again, and the other woman received a blow. The fourth woman received a blow the fourth women he said that he did not see the women and did not know whether they were men, women or children, as they were concealed by the bushes.

Mrs. Cole, who was not a witness of the alleged whipping act, testified that after having a party arrested for picking berries upon forbidden properly they had not had as much trouble as heretofore.

The address of the evening was defivered by Rev. W. G. Fennell, pastor of the Asylum Avenue Baptist church, Hartford. His theme was "New Duties Under New Convictions." He said, among other things:

The times have changed. The church needs to adjust itself to the changed conditions. This does not mean an overthrow of the old vital and fundamental truths: but it does mean the mental truths; but it does mean the adaptation of the truth to new relations. Japan has the same vigorous spirit as of old, but fights with new weapons of western warfare. The old time weapons would have little pow-

Three Salient Changes.

The changed conditions which the church must meet today are especially three. 1. From the rural to the urban type of life. 2. From the cid time New England population to the foreign. 3. From the local and provincial view to the world wide. All this means more direct personal work wisely directed; it means a new recognition of the worth of the foreigner and a new spirit of brotherhood toward him; if means a new devotion and a broad statesmanship in the kingdom of God.
